brilliant bridesmaid

While the 'big day' is all about the bride, as a bridesmaid you still get to enjoy the pre-wedding and the big day excitement, you will endure the highs and lows and will be seen by just as many people and in the spotlight just as often as the bride and groom. Therefore, you too must ensure you look your best.

There's no suggesting you go on a soup diet or book into the dentist to have your teeth whitened although its not a bad idea, milk it while you can!

cheers

Making a bridesmaid speech may take place at the ceremony or at the reception and is a chance to let everyone in on a few 'dirty secrets' from the bride's past. The aim of any speech is to make it fun and light hearted with a touch of sentiment. You can reflect on the bride's life before, as a married couple and in the future.

crafty girls

As bridesmaid the bride may like your help in organising the invitations and bonbonnière for the wedding. This may include helping her choose designs, getting quotes as well as helping write and post the invitations. Be mindful of the bride's budget, as this will guide her final choice.
